Family of Augustus Konrad, Eccentric Miser, Deceased, Trying to Find Hiding Place.

INVOKE AID OF THE PRESS.

Old Man During Last Illness Endeavored to Indicate Where It Was Hidden, but Was Unable To.

New York, June 26.—In an advertisement printed in a morning paper lies the last hope of a Tarrytown family of recovering a fortune estimated as high as $200,000, which Augustus Konrad, eccentric miser, concealed while in health and the hiding place of which he was unable to reveal after disease had suddenly destroyed his reason.

Konrad died in Poughkeepsie insane hospital in October of last year. Before his death he gave evidence of desiring to tell the attendants something, and he even attempted to place his thoughts in writing a letter to his daughter, but the result was an incoherent jumble of words. At the end he had to be cared for as a baby, but through it all he insisted on being allowed to retain three keys—one to his home at Tarrytown; a second to a trunk which he always kept locked, and a third, the mysterious key, to a safe deposit vault, in which the family believes the written evidence of his wealth reposes.

Since his death every effort has been made to discover this vault. Nearby safe deposit companies have been asked to aid, the company making the key has been appealed to, and, these sources failing, Mrs. Konrad, as a last resort, decided to appeal for aid in an advertisement.

Konrad when he died was 53 years old and all his life was very much of a mystery to his friends and family as the hiding place of his fortune is. A member of an old Long Island family, he prepared for the ministry only to become a carpenter, later taking up horticulture in which he became widely known as an authority on orchids, he abandoned his flowers to engage in the gas business in Tarrytown in which he amassed a fortune. He retired eight years ago.

In all his years he was remarkably secretive about his affairs, never taking his wife into his confidence. In many matters he was very close. Ten years ago he decided that his family would have to support itself, and since that time Mrs. Konrad has supported her children and herself in the sale of her son's clothing. The last few years her son David has aided in this.

Last July Konrad became ill and was confined to his home. The doctors declared his trouble was a tumor of the brain, due to an injury received in a snowball fight in childhood, and finally ordered his removal to Poughkeepsie.

EDUCATORS GATHERING.

Cleveland, O., June 26.—With the arrival today of the majority of the general officers of the National Edu-national association, the work of taking care of the thousands of contemplated visitors began. Members of the chamber of commerce are back of a movement to make next week a time of home-coming. Letters and posters will be mailed to all towns in the state of Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania and Illinois to point out the recent ruling by the interstate commerce commission, which makes it obligatory upon the railroads to offer to all the reduced rate of 1 1/4 cents a mile which they have promised visitors.

The official program given out today is the result of weeks of work by National Secretary Shepard, and his assistants. It is a document of 39 pages and contains, besides a full list of the addresses and exercises, much general instruction and information concerning the National Educational association.

COMPULSORY VACCINATION.

Chicago, June 26.—One hundred physicians from the Chicago health department descended on the population of the district bounded by Sixteenth, Forty-fourth, State, and La Salle streets last night to vaccinate every one in sight. Each physician was armed with full police power and had the right to arrest all who resisted vaccination.

The move was ordered by Health Commissioner Evans, because of the large number of smallpox cases which have come out of the district and the large percentage of cases among the colored people compared with the white.

SEEKING VIEWS ON CURRENCY QUESTION

Washington, June 26.—In connection with the work of the national monetary commission, created at the last session of Congress, the national board of trade is making an effort to collate views for presentation before the commission.

Notification has been sent to all the organizations making up the national body emphasizing the necessity of immediate consideration of the matter. This notice is given in a letter issued by President Frank de la Laine of the board, who points out that it is peculiarly incumbent upon the board to consider the matter in an endeavor to agree upon the principles of a system for presentation.

The letter adds: "The subject dealing with the most vital principle in the business world, and affecting the varied interests of 90,000,000 of people is spreading over a continent with all the consequent conditions of environment. Nothing is so sensitive as finance and moreover each branch of trade is inclined to look solely upon the effect of any change upon its own immediate interests and there will, therefore, be great difficulty in harmonizing so as to make a comprehensive national system."

"If the main principles can be agreed on, the necessary changes should be by gradual steps, all tending steadily towards the desired end which can only be reached by giving time so as to avoid disturbance of existing conditions. Owing to the lamentable effects of the recent financial crisis, the country seems fully alive to the necessity of a change, and the opportunity should be availed of and acted upon while this impression continues."

RUSO-CHINESE BANK.

Will Withdraw Its Branches from Manchuria Where Japan Rules.

Mukden, June 26.—The Russo-Chinese bank, in spite of the protest of the Russian legation at Peking, is to immediately withdraw its branches from that portion of Manchuria over which Japan exercises its influence. The bank has been shorn of its political character since the death of M. Pokotiloff, former Russian minister to China, and its withdrawal from southern Manchuria promotes the Russo-Japanese entente by further demarcating the spheres of influence of the two countries in Manchuria.

FOURTH OF JULY.

Mayor McClellan Directs That None But Patriotic Airs Be Played.

New York, June 26.—In a proclamation issued by Mayor George B. McClellan relative to the observance of the Fourth of July he directs that none but patriotic airs be played by the bands in the public parks and on the recreation places on that day. The usual orders for the raising of the American flag on all city buildings are issued and the mayor further urges citizens everywhere throughout the city to display the national colors "as the most appropriate manner of celebration of the anniversary of the Declaration of Independence."

NAT'L CURRENCY ASSOCIATION.

Washington, June 26.—Representatives of the 11 national banks in Washington yesterday took final steps for the organization of a national currency association, under the new emergency currency law. Formal application for the establishment of the association was made and will be forwarded to Secy. Cortelyou of the treasury department for approval. Secretary Cortelyou has already passed favorably on the plan for forming an association here.

TO INSTALL 6-POUNDERS.

Vallejo, Cal., June 26.—It is stated here that all of the three-pounder guns on the cruisers and battleships of the Pacific and Atlantic fleets are to be dismantled and turned over to the different naval stations, and that six-pounders will be installed in their place.

TO STUDY ORIENTAL EDUCATIONAL SITUATION

Chicago, June 26.—The appointment of an oriental education commission to study the educational situation in the orient during the coming year was announced by the board of trustees of the University of Chicago yesterday. Several of the foremost educators of the university have been placed on the commission, of which Prof. Ernest D. Burton will have general charge. Prof. Thomas Chubbard Chamberlain will be a joint commissioner with Prof. Burton.

Prof. Burton will sail from New York in July accompanied by Dr. H. H. H. Reed, secretary of the commission. He will go via England, and will visit the educational institutions in Turkey, Egypt, India and Japan on his way to China, which is to be the special field of study. Prof. Chamberlain will sail in January, going via Japan and Korea, and will be accompanied by his son, Dr. Roland Chamberlain.

The two parties will meet in Peking in February and will carry on their work together. Prof. Burton will investigate educational conditions in general, the type of school needed, the educational agencies already existing, and the question whether American universities can be of any service in promoting the well-being of China by education.

PRINCIPALS IN GOLDFIELD STREET DUEL BOTH DEAD

Goldfield, Nev., June 25.—Mayo Taylor, a mine superintendent, and E. W. Priest, an ex-constable, died today within three hours of each other as a result of a desperate street duel with pistols last Tuesday, in which the two men almost killed one another. There had been bad feeling between them for some time, Taylor, it is said, having charged Priest with trying to break up his home. Tuesday afternoon the two men met on the street near Taylor's home and immediately began shooting at one another. Both fell but continued the battle while their revolvers were empty. Priest was taken to a hospital and Taylor to his home nearby.

MINING SUIT INVOLVING GRUB STAKE RIGHTS

Seattle, June 26.—A lawsuit which involves over a million dollars in Alaskan property, but which is unusually interesting on account of its grubstake feature, has just been decided on an appeal by the supreme court. J. C. Barnett, banking and mining operator of Fairbanks, has been forced to make an accounting of all property and money which he has made while in the Tanana valley to James P. Causten, at present collector of customs in Porto Rico, the defendant in the case.

In 1901 Barnett got into a difficulty with the collector of the Tanana valley, the Tanana with a stock of goods. His steamer sprung a leak and Causten advanced $6,000 to engage another boat with the agreement that he should have a third interest in whatever profit Barnett made.

Barnett through the fortunate development of the Tanana became immensely wealthy, and established a bank, and at present has interests in many of the richest claims in the district.

This agreement holds good according to the decision of the supreme court, and a third of all Barnett's possessions is awarded to Causten.

TO RENAME SAG HARBOR.

New York, June 26.—There is a movement on foot to rename Sag Harbor, the Long Island whaling port, in honor of Mrs. Russell Sage to show the residents' appreciation of her gifts to the village.

Mrs. Sage's latest proposed gift is to buy the old driving park grounds south of the village for a public park. It is now proposed to add a final "S" to the "Sag," thus making the name of the village "Sage" Harbor.

Including the building of the handsome new Piercen high school, Mrs. Sage's gifts to the village now amount to $200,000.

Ukiah, Cal., June 26.—B. N. Springer, formerly a candidate for county surveyor and a resident of Ukiah, now in business in Potter valley, claims to be heir to an estate in Wilmington, Del., alleged to be worth $90,000,000. He will at once take legal steps to establish his descent.

Christopher Springer died in Wilmington in the year 1859, leaving land that now comprises a very large part of that city, and extensive farming lands in Pennsylvania, to the Swedish church there under lease for 99 years. The lease expired in 1880, a fact that has only recently become known, and now every Springer from the Atlantic to the Pacific is trying to connect himself with the vast estate.

All the heirs are now taking steps to organize a corporation to provide money to take up the case.

St. Louis, June 26.—Asst. Health Commissioner Winn announced last night that Monday he will begin a crusade which he expects will exterminate rats in St. Louis, which has discovered a new virus which he believes will eradicate the pest. Rats from several parts of the city will be inoculated with the virus, and if his theory works, he says, within a few months rodents will be unknown in the city.

The plan which Dr. Winn will try, is to inoculate several live rats with the virus, in a similar manner that a person is vaccinated. He will scrape a leg of the rodent and inject the serum. The virus will cause the rodent to become very sick and get a high fever. The fever will cause him to seek fresh air and thus prevent him dying in his hole. The disease which is produced by the serum is highly contagious to rats.

To experiments which the physician has made show the odor emanating from a patient attracts other rodents and they turn become affected with the malady. The rat dies, however, practically without pain, so far as anybody save a fellow rat can tell.

TEMPERANCE RUN MAD.
Crank Proposes That Every Person Who Buys a Drink Have License.

New York, June 26.—That buyers of alcoholic beverages as well as sellers of them be compelled to take out licenses is the proposition which George W. De Culma, an architect with offices in New York, has embodied in an ordinance which he has presented for adoption in his home town of Montclair, N. J., near here. Under the proposed ordinance every purchaser of a drink must be supplied with license and a metal badge. Should a liquor dealer sell to a man not thus tagged he would be rendered liable to prosecution with the revocation of the selling license as a penalty. The ordinance does not say how the tags shall be worn, the idea being presumably to give the wearers liberty to follow their own fancies in this respect.

THE COLUMBIA BRIDGED.
One at Vancouver, Wash., Longest Steel Bridge in World, Completed.

Vancouver, Wash., June 26.—The steel bridge across the Columbia at this place, said to be the longest steel bridge in the world, is now fully complete. The bridge was built by the Spokane, Portland & Seattle railroad at a cost of $2,000,000. It is two miles long, including the approaches. The main structure of 19 spans is 2,306 feet in length. It is the first and only bridge to span the Columbia between Oregon and Washington.

LOCAL MARKETS.

In today's local markets, the receipts include a much needed car of bananas, a car of tomatoes from Texas, a car of Valencia oranges, and a much called for car of lemons. Prices on this latter article are advancing, owing to the increasing strenuousness of the weather, having advanced a dollar in a week, with excellent prospects of another rise to come. Lemons are $5.30 per case, although a year ago the figure was $7. Potatoes are scarce that the price is now up to $2, whereas new potatoes are selling at $2.25 per cwt. There is a rise in hay prices; the same in wheat owing to scarcity of the article in this state and Idaho. Local dealers claim that, owing to a continuation of the Vining policy of years ago, by the railroads, which makes it easy to ship out but hard to ship in, all the local wheat was shipped out of the intermountain country early in the season; and now that it is all gone, wheat must be shipped in from the middle western states. Shipments call attention to the fact that on certain lines the rate from Idaho common points to Chicago is 50 cents, while from the same points of origin to Utah common points, on the same classification, the rate is 25 to 30 cents. Moreover, on some things, the rate from San Francisco to Denver is less than from San Francisco to Salt Lake, and some rates from Denver to San Francisco are less than to Salt Lake.
